Your Topic(s)

Remember: your thesis must explore some aspect of development. It cannot just be international or comparative.

1. What international issues grab your attention, inspire or provoke you? Think about classes you have taken, recent events, even your own heritage/and or experiences.

______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________

2. What questions would you like to explore and answer about these issue?

______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________

3. Think about courses you have taken thus far: from what perspective would you like to approach your questions? As a historian? A policy-maker or environmentalist?

______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________
______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________

4. Is there a region(s) you want to focus on? A time period?

______________________________________________________________________________________________________________________